

Resolving Plumbing and Wet Basement Problems for Your Peace Mind

GROWING UP in his parents' home, a Windsorite never knew a time when the basement was totally dry. There were only varying stages ranging from damp to flooded. When ownership of the family home passed to him, the man was determined to end the cycle and called in Dry-Rite Home Solutions.

"The house's foundation had been buckled for decades, allowing moisture to enter," says Gary Quinn, owner of the independent business in Maidstone. "After we repaired the foundation and waterproofed, the basement dried out and has remained damp-free. The homeowner is really pleased."

In Riverside, "the basement of every house on a particular block always experienced water damage when widespread flooding occurred. One homeowner called us in. We installed a sump pump with a backup battery and a back-water valve. When a big storm hit last year, that house was the only one on the street that didn't flood," Gary says.

While these are the typical results achieved locally by Dry-Rite, "owners of new and older homes have been so frustrated by flooding, they are skeptical that we can actually help them," Gary observes.

"Many don't realize there are proven solutions that are also affordable. In fact, a lot of homes qualify for Basement Flooding Protection Subsidy Programs offered to owners by the City of Windsor, Tecumseh and some other communities."

Serving Essex County for nine years now, the Dry-Rite team are experts in the problems home and business owners encounter. In addition to sump pump and back-water valve installation, the company also does basement waterproofing; slabjacking for sunken, cracked or lifted concrete floors, pads and patios; and foundation wall reinforcement.

Complete plumbing services are available, as well. When property owners are confronted with a clogged drain, overflowing toilet or frozen pipes, Dry-Rite sends in its staff master plumbers to take care of all plumbing needs. From repairing and replacing burst pipes in an old house to installing plumbing in a new build, the company does it all.

Micro cameras to inspect inside pipes, electric eels to bore through clogs and other sophisticated equipment assist the plumbers in doing a thorough job. Dry-Rite can provide the water heaters, boilers and in-floor heating systems the team installs.

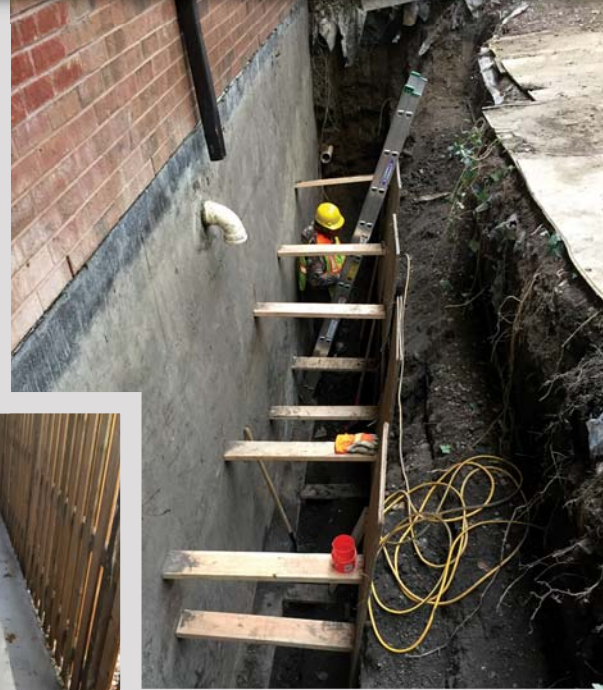

For the convenience of property owners, Dry-Rite just added interior home renovation services. "We've hired the general contracting team we used to recommend to our clients," says Gary. "When you need skilled, reliable professionals to do drywall, tiling and more to complete your new or renovated kitchen, bathroom or finished basement, just make one call to Dry-Rite."

Fall is a good time to discuss home improvements. Before work begins, however, wet basements must be fixed. "We only use the highest quality products, like Delta and Blueskin Waterproofing Membranes and other interior and exterior waterproofing solutions, backed by a 10-year guarantee," Gary says.

Dry-Rite Home Solutions offers free, no-obligation estimates on all its services. When estimating basement waterproofing, the company provides a complimentary on-site inspection and a written solution.

Clients are so pleased they have given Dry-Rite a 5-star Google review. The Better Business Bureau has rated the company A+.

David of Windsor found, "Everything went as planned and my basement no longer leaks. Gary told us what he would do, gave me a timeline and price and stuck to it. I would certainly hire Dry-Rite again as they were very professional both on and off the job site."
